

With many infrastructures queuing up for the “post-ELT” era, it is important that the interferometric community position itself for its future. What are the scientific topics to achieve. What are the challenges? This question should be addressed in the context of the possibility of adding another Unit Telescope to the VLTI. So, this poster will ask the question: Shall we write a white paper?